

PROMISE MADE FOR DRAINAGE RELIEF

B. & O. Southwestern Division Engineer to Consider Larger Waterways Under Track.

REQUEST IS MADE BY COUNCIL

Believed That Larger Culverts Will Improve Sewerage Conditions in West Part of City.

Promise that the waterways under the B. & O. Southwestern Railroad tracks near the gas plant will be enlarged has been made by the city council by the company's officials. The council is of the opinion that the larger outlets will in a great measure solve the surface water drainage problem in the west part of the city for in times of heavy rains the present sewers will be relieved. The question has been before the council for some time and at the regular meeting last night Andrews reported that he and Mayor Ross had taken up the matter with the division engineer's office and had finally secured a promise of action.

Andrews said that he and the Mayor, composing the special committee, had conferred with Ed Herth, the assistant division engineer, who asked for the request in writing. This was filed with H. H. Cassil, division engineer, who replied that the matter would be given attention as soon as Superintendent Hagerty returns to the city from his trip through the west. The request must go before the officials at Baltimore before any action is taken. It is thought that the outlets under the tracks are too small and that by enlarging them the sewers will be relieved of a large volume of surface water. Residents in the west part of the city are especially interested in the proposition.

At the meeting Thursday night all members were present with the exception of Steinwedel. Upon motion of Rockstroh, chairman of the board of public works, the council will meet in special session next Thursday night to determine the method of keeping the improved streets clean. Several methods have been suggested and recently a special nozzle was received on trial but it has been found that the streets cannot be satisfactorily flushed in this manner. A special committee investigations methods used in other cities and will file a verbal report at the special meeting. Chief Everhart was instructed to return the nozzle as it could not be used here.

A special committee, composed of Ahlbrand, Ley and the city engineer, reported that they had inspected the new Mill street sewer and Ahlbrand, chairman of the committee, filed a report in which several recommendations were made. It was found that the sewer had a sufficient fall and the report stated that it would be adequate.

The city ordinance providing for the appointment of a standing committee on impeachment and investigation was read for the second time and was allowed to take its regular course.

Upon motion of Andrews, the street commissioner was instructed

"In His Name." This will be the inscription that will be printed upon the sacks in which will be packed the flour and meal that is donated by the people of this vicinity for the Belgian sufferers. At the top of the sack will appear the words "Greetings to Belgium." Under the inscription it will be stated that the contribution came from "Seymour, Indiana, U. S. A." The order for the sacks has been given and they are expected to arrive here within the next ten days. The flour and meal must be packed in a sack of a certain size, holding a quarter of a barrel in weight.

Tags will also be printed upon which each donor may write his name. He may also designate whether he desires to send meal or flour. The flour will cost $1.25 a sack and the meal 75 cents a sack, the local dealers having made a special price so that the money contributed will buy all the supplies possible. It is hoped that one or two car loads of flour and meal can be shipped from this community.

All arrangements have been made for the ship that will carry the flour. The freight will be paid by several persons who are active in the movement and the arrangements have also been made to send the shipments to New York City. The ship that will carry the cargo was recently built and is named the "Northwestern Miller." The voyage to Belgium will be her first trip across the waters.

Persons who are interested in this movement are asked to contribute any amount. Meal and flour are both needed in Belgium and the American ambassador has made it known that the supplies cannot be purchased there. The contributions may be left at this office where the donors can fill out the cards with the names and designate whether the money is to be used for the purchase of flour or meal.

TRIAL OF LEIGHTON CASE CONTINUED UNTIL WEDNESDAY

All of Witnesses for Defendants Have not Testified—Many Attend The Trial.

Although the evidence in the case of James Leighton, a minor, against Harvey L. McCord, chief of police, et al., has not been completed, the trial will be continued until next Wednesday. This announcement was made by Judge Swails today. One of the attorneys interested in the case has another trial for next week and it was agreed that the continuance should be granted.

The trial was continued today and a number of witnesses for the defendants were called to the stand. It is not expected that all the defendants' witnesses can be examined before adjournment is taken this afternoon. The plaintiff will then be given an opportunity to introduce the rebuttal evidence after which the case will be argued and given to the jury to decide. Quite a large number of witnesses and others interested in the case went to Brownstown today to attend the trial.

STRANGER IS HELD BY LOCAL POLICE

PLEADS GUILTY TO LARCENY

Prisoner Taken in Custody for Alleged Theft of Gold Watch from Chris Sager.

John Henry, a stranger, charged with petit larceny, pleaded guilty this morning in Mayor Ross' court, but sentence was withheld until the defendant's record could be investigated. It was charged that he took a gold watch and about $4 in money from the home of Chris Sager, who lives near Peter's Switch, last Sunday. Henry had been working for Mr. Sager and had been missing since the alleged theft.

Thursday afternoon he was seen on the street by an acquaintance who notified the police of the theft. Henry was arrested and lodged in jail. When he was taken in custody by the officers he wore a heavy, black overcoat and when searched a Masonic ritual and several letters bearing the name of Harold P. Loebeck, of Indianapolis, were found. Officer Russell, suspecting that the overcoat was stolen, telephoned to the Indianapolis police to locate Mr. Loebeck and learned he had moved to New Albany. The New Albany police were notified and they immediately returned the answer that Mr. Loebeck's coat had been stolen about three weeks ago.

Mr. Loebeck came to Seymour this morning and positively identified the overcoat. He also proved that he was the owner of the lodge ritual and several other articles which were found in the pockets. He told the local officers that he and Henry had roomed at the same place at New Albany and that the overcoat was taken about the time Henry left New Albany.

The prisoner is being held at the city jail awaiting sentence and has little to say regarding the charge. He refuses to talk to any one but the police officers and has given them meager information about himself. The watch which belonged to Mr. Sager was found on Henry and will be returned to the owner.

Mayor Ross has jurisdiction in petit larceny cases for first offense and if nothing further is found about the defendant he will be sentenced in this county. In case the New Albany police desire to file a charge against him the local court will likely give him a small fine and jail sentence and turn him over to the Floyd county officials.

The safe at the office of the Goyert-Vogel Poultry Company in this city, was opened Thursday night and some cash is missing. The police are working on the case but have found no clues. The theft may have been the work of professionals as several suspicious characters were seen in the vicinity of the office Thursday. Tracks near the office failed to furnish a positive clew. A check that was taken from the cash drawer was found in the yard by Officer Russell who investigated the case.

NEW WAR TAX IS FELT IN SEYMOUR

Several Classes of Business Must Give Their Share to Make up $100,000,000 Deficit.

PENALTY AFTER DECEMBER 1

Law Specifies Exact Amount Each Firm or Corporation Affected Will be Assessed.

Firms and corporations in Seymour who will be taxed under the new war revenue measure must settle before December 1 with Peter J. Krueyer, internal revenue collector of the Sixth district, the amount they must pay. Several classes of business that are conducted here will be required to give a certain portion of their incomes to the government to make up the $100,000,000 deficit. The law is very exacting and provides specifically for each class of business. Among those who will be taxed are the owners of theaters, moving picture shows, cigar manufacturers, tobacco and liquor dealers.

There has been some dispute as to what constitutes a motion picture show but the internal revenue collector has interpreted the law to mean that any theater that gives more than a film program with music either on piano or by orchestra is classed as a theater. Shows in the latter class are taxed from $15 to $90 a year according to the seating capacity. All persons who are required to pay the tax must do so before December 1 or a penalty of 50 per cent. in added. The tax became due November 1.

The dramatic theaters where the seating capacity is larger than at most "movies" must pay a heavier tax. The law provides that theaters, museums and concert halls must pay $25 if the seating capacity is 250 or less; $50 for 250 to 500; $75 for 500 to 800; $100 for more than 800. Circuses must pay $100 and all other shows must pay $10. The "movie" belongs to the last class. That there may be no dispute between owner and lessee as to who must pay the tax, the law says "the building under lease at the passage of the act, the lessee shall pay the tax, unless otherwise stipulated in the lease."

All commission merchants must pay $10 a year, unless they are commercial brokers, when they pay only one tax of $20 a year. The war tax for each bowling alley, billiard or pool table is $5.00.

Tobacco dealers also are taxed according to sales. Here, too, the law is not vague as to how the tax may be known. Last year's business is the basis. Retail dealers in manufactured tobacco, cigarettes, cigars and snuff whose receipts were not more than two hundred dollars last year pay nothing. All others pay $4.80. Manufacturers of tobacco are taxed as follows: Annual sales not more than 100,000 pounds, $6; sales between 100,000 and 200,000 pounds, $12; sales between 200,000 and 400,000 pounds, $24; sales between 400,000 and 1,000,000 pounds, $60; sales between 1,000,000 and 1,500,000 pounds, $300; sales between 5,000,000 and 10,000,000 pounds, $1,000.

A proposition by a number of Carranza's generals to the convention that General Villa leave the country has been rejected. The delegates adopted a resolution in reply declaring that Villa is in complete charge of the convention's military operations and would remain in control.

GOVERNOR PLACES BAN ON HUNTING

Issues Proclamation Calling Upon Sportsmen to Aid in Stamping Out Stock Disease.

PROSECUTION OF VIOLATORS

Lardowners and Tenants Urged to Exercise Right to Prohibit Hunting on Their Land.

Bulletin.
By United Press.

Indianapolis, November 13.—Governor Ralston today issued a proclamation calling upon all sportsmen to refrain from hunting until the foot and mouth disease among live stock has ceased in this state. He called upon lardowners and tenants to exercise their right to prohibit hunting on their land. He pointed out that dogs and ferrets used by hunters would spread the stock disease. He warned hunters that they are liable to criminal prosecution for violation of the order.

Indianapolis, November 13.—Governor Ralston investigated all phases of the hunting law today.

There is provision in the hunting laws of the state prohibiting any persons hunting on land without first obtaining the consent of the owner thereof. The rigid enforcement of this part of the law and a concerted action by all farmers in the infected districts by which hunting would be eliminated on each farm, would be one way of solving the dilemma at least partially, it is believed.

The fact that hunters can carry the foot and mouth germs in their clothing or on their shoes from one field to another, therefore from one farm to another, has been commented on since the beginning of the epidemic in this state. One way of reaching this condition, state officials have said, would be concerted action on the part of all farmers in the infected areas.

The Governor's proclamation, however, was expected to solve the situation and to bring into general conditions whatever element of power to prevent hunting the Governor finds he has. The Governor, it is known, has been considering the hunting problem and its relation to the foot and mouth epidemic for some time. Yesterday a group of Marion county farmers called at his offices and asked that some action on the question of preventing hunting be taken. There is an inadequate force of deputies of the commissioner of fisheries and game in Indiana to police the entire state, but with the co-operation of the farmers a great deal may be done toward stopping all hunting, at least in the district infected by the disease.

There was no announcement of further steps against the disease from the state board of health today and no conferences had been held early today with Dr. A. F. Nelson, the state veterinarian. It was expected, how-

$600; sales between 10,000,000 and 20,000,000 pounds, $1,200; sales more than 20,000,000 pounds, $2,496.

Manufacturers of cigars are taxed as follows: Annual sales not more than 100,000, $3; between 100,000 and 200,000, $6; between 200,000 and 400,000, $12; between 400,000 and 1,000,000, $30; between 1,000,000 and 5,000,000, $150; between 5,000,000 and 20,000,000, $600; between 20,000,000 and 40,000,000, $2,496. Cigarette manufacturers pay a tax similar to that paid by cigar manufacturers, but the number of cigarettes as compared with the amount of tax is larger than the number of cigars as compared with the amount of tax. The cigarette tax will amount to nothing in Indiana, because of the absence of manufacturers.

Bankers and brokers also are affected by the special taxes. The former must pay $1 a $1,000 on capital stock, surplus and undivided profits, and the latter, who have not paid taxes as bankers, must pay $30. Pawnbrokers do not escape the law. They get to divy up $50.

The first payment of the special taxes, which, as said, must be before December 1, will cover a period of eight months, beginning November 1, 1914, and continuing until June 30, 1915. The last date ends the revenue department's fiscal year.

The tax on beer and wines provided by the war tax law already is effective, and other stamp taxes, provided for by the law, become effective December 1. No stamps other than beer stamps have been received by Mr. Kruyer.

FOUR ARE IN THE RACE FOR SPEAKER OF HOUSE

John C. Branaman, of this County, Will Have Opposition—Bedwell is Organization's Man.

John C. Branaman, representative from Jackson county, who aspires to be the next speaker of the lower branch of the Indiana legislature, will have some opposition as three other candidates have already announced that they are in the race for the same position. Branaman was a candidate for the speakership two years ago when Homer L. Cook, secretary of state-elect, was selected.

Mason J. Niblack, of Vincennes, has announced that he is a candidate for the speakership and is campaigning among the members of the lower house. He represents Knox, Gibson and Vanderburg counties. He has been working in harmony with the organization but it is reported that Charles H. Bedwell, of Sullivan, has been slated for the place by the machine. Political leaders say that there is a likelihood that Bedwell will be chosen speaker and Niblack as floor leader for the majority. Fred Feick, of Garrett, has also made it known that he will accept the speakership.

WINS DESPERATE BATTLE FROM "WHITE PLAGUE"

MRS. H. D. ALLEN

Mrs. H. D. Allen, of Boswell, Ind., R. 12, after having taken Nature's Creation, tells the story of her recovery. "In August, 1911, I was taken with severe pain in my chest. My lungs would pain me so that I was compelled to be propped up in bed with pillows. I had a continuous hacking cough. I commenced doctoring with one of the best physicians in the city. He gave me treatments which I continued until March, 1912. I received very little benefit and was very much discouraged. I purchased a bottle of Nature's Creation and after taking the medicine three days my cough began to loosen and my lungs were relieved of that awful pain. My appetite improved and I began to feel stronger. Before I had completed my first bottle I felt like a new woman. I am now feeling fine. Had it not been for Nature's Creation I don't think I could have lived through the winter. I can not praise Nature's Creation too highly and can recommend it to anyone afflicted with that dread disease."

July 30, 1914, Mrs. Allen wrote: "When I started using Nature's Creation I could not comb my own hair or talk above a whisper, but I got relief after the third day. I just feel fine now. I don't cough or have any more hemorrhages, and if it had not been for Nature's Creation I am positive I would not be living to-day, and I give Nature's Creation credit for it. I stopped taking all other kinds of medicine when I started taking Nature's Creation, so I know it was Nature's Creation that cured me."

As a protection to all concerned, I hereby agree to pay anyone $1,000 who will prove that I have ever paid a single cent for any testimonial. Nature's Creation is a scientific remedy for tuberculosis and the conditions which lead to it, such as weak lungs, asthma, catarrh, bronchitis, impure blood, and rundown system. Send for "Truth," our new free book, containing photos and testimonials of former sufferers who give praise to Nature's Creation. Write to-day. M. L. NEW ENTHUSIASM MARKS WORK OF REPUBLICAN PARTY

State Committee Praised for Excellent Manner in which Campaign was Conducted.

Special to Seymour Republican.

Indianapolis, Ind., November 13.—Probably never before in the political history of Indiana was the organization activity of a party as pronounced immediately following an election as is that of Indiana Republicans today. Apparently the shout that went up all over the state the next day after the election was to the effect "Close Up the Ranks and On to Victory." One of the interesting features of the situation is the fact that the demand that the work of organization be resumed promptly and carried forward with vigor is equally as strong from returning Progressives as from those who remained in the old household. Letters continue to pour into Republican state headquarters by the hundreds from voters who were Progressives until November 3rd last announcing their return to the Republican party and offering their services in the work of organization and preparation for the battle of 1916. It is perfectly plain at this time that the opposition in Indiana to Democracy will be solid, harmonious, enthusiastic and well organized when the presidential contest opens eighteen months hence.

In any number of counties arrangements have already been made to maintain permanent headquarters and the matter is under consideration in a number of other counties. Chairman Edwards of Hendricks county, has announced that the Republican committee will keep headquarters open in Danville every working day between now and the next election. The Marion county committee has made arrangements to keep committee rooms open and the same is true of the Greene county committee.

Clubs are being organized in every section of the state. A plan has been formulated for the organization of a Republican club in every precinct in Madison county before the opening of the new year. When these precinct clubs are organized it is the plan to make them all a part of a central Madison County Republican club.

A Republican club has already been organized in Laporte county and a militant lot of Republicans in Ripley county will perfect the organization of a club next Saturday.

"In all my years of experience I never saw the enthusiasm and the determination with which the work of organization is being pushed as it is at this time by the Republicans," remarked a veteran political observer today. "The drift is with the G. O. P. and the results of the recent election will create interest on the part of thousands who possibly were a bit apathetic during the recent campaign. My guess is that the Republicans will find the work of organization for the next campaign easier that it has been for twenty years—in fact easier than it has been for any party to organize during that time. It seems to be in the air that nothing in the world can prevent a Republican victory of overwhelming proportions in state and nation in 1906 and no one knows better than the active party managers just how much of a help such a general feeling is when it comes down to the real work of perfecting an organization. Another factor that must be taken into consideration in the next battle is the fact that the Republicans will have about 3,500 office holders in the state working hand in glove with the regular party committeemen. And the fact that they will have representation of every election board in the state and approximately one-half of the inspectors will not work to the party's disadvantage in the least."

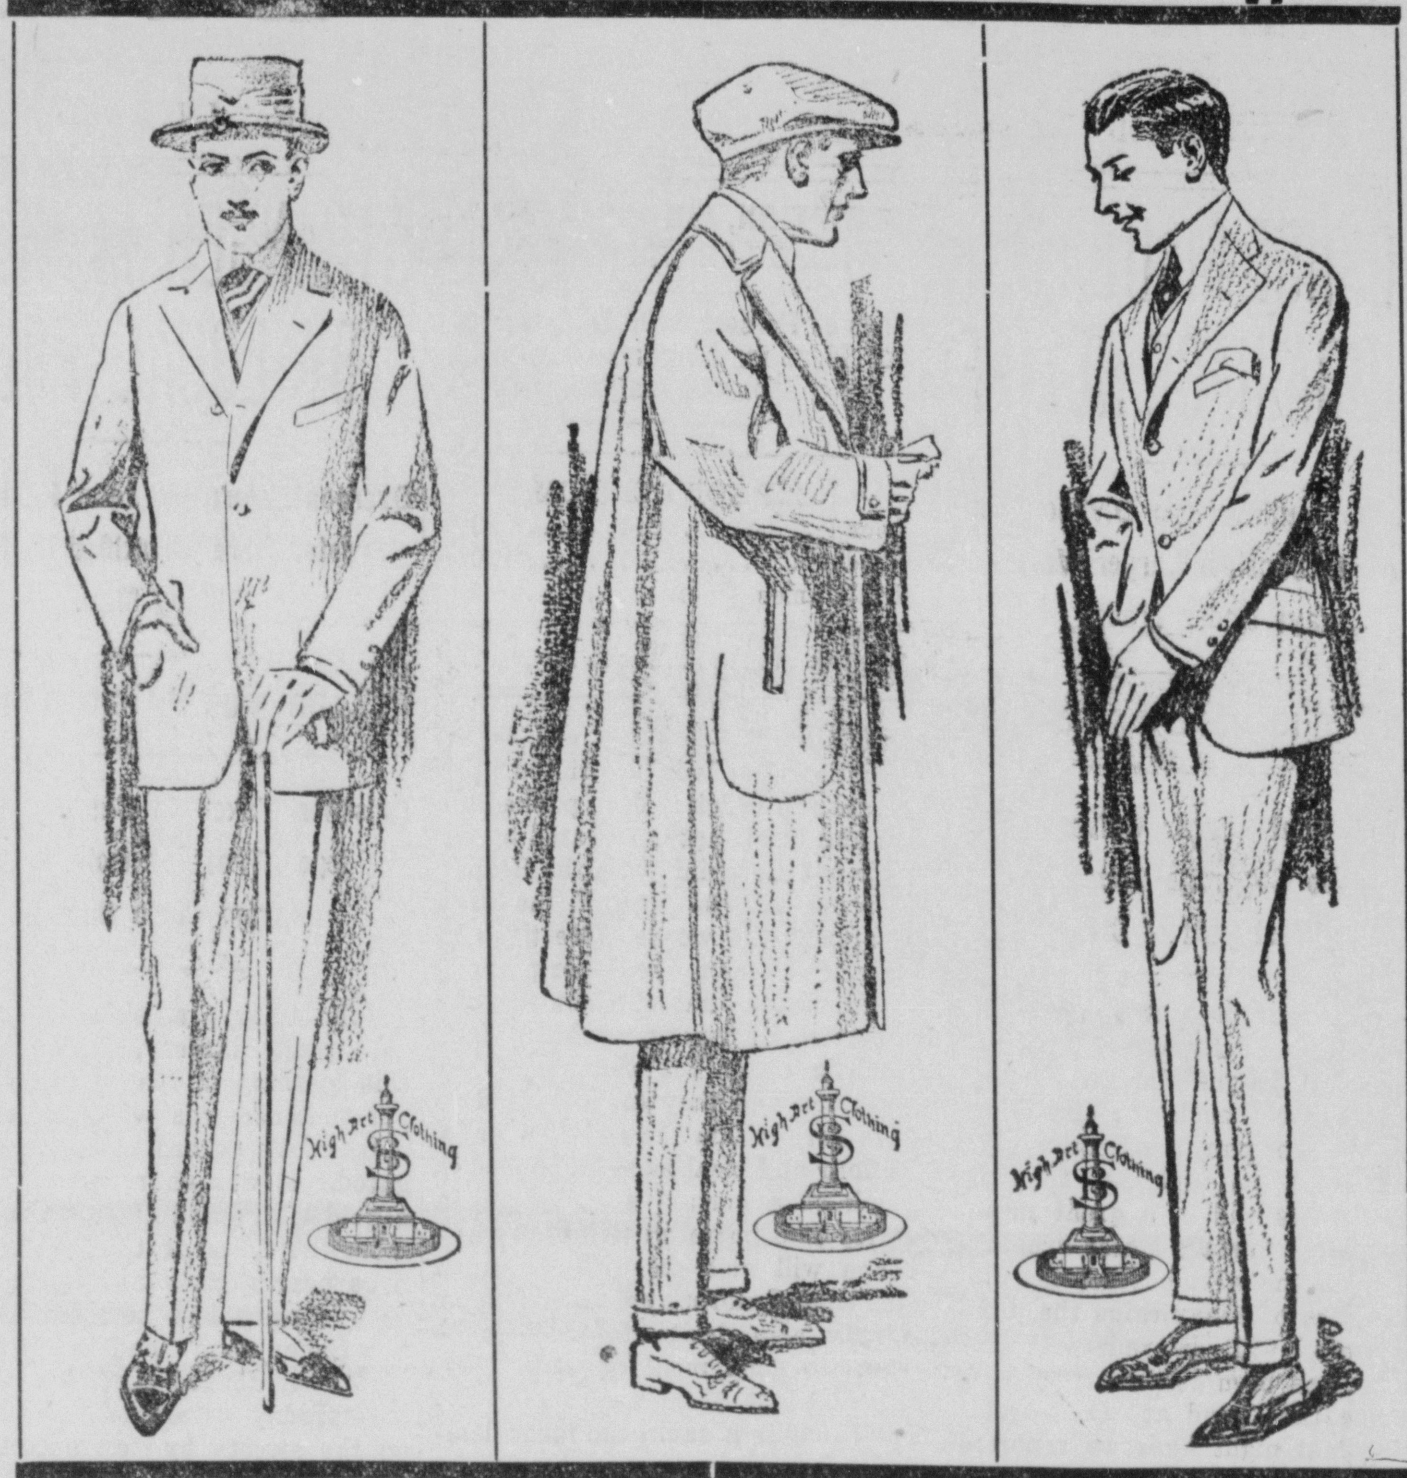

The remains of Mrs. Nora Clemmons, who was killed almost instantly Thursday in Indianapolis, when she fell from a street car, were taken through here this morning en route to Logansport for burial. Mrs. Clemmons became confused when she had ridden past the street where she was to get off and failed to wait for the car to stop. There have been four deaths in the immediate family recently and they have occurred suddenly.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Hatton and daughter, of Waynesville, were here this morning on their way home from a week's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Beldon, at Chestnut Ridge.

Mrs. W. E. Allen, who has been visiting Mrs. Elmer Pinchon, returned to her home in Tunnelton this morning.

Miss Helen Brunow went to Brownstown this morning to spend a few days with her sister, Mrs. Frank Zabel.

57,000 BRITISH SOLDIERS
LOST IN WAR TO THIS TIME

Announcement Startles All England
But Recruiting Has Increased
During Past Week.

By United Press.
London, Nov. 13—England was staggered today by an announcement from Premier Asquith stating that the British casualties in the war to date are 57,000 killed, wounded and missing.

More men are to be rushed to the front. A supplementary estimate from the war office today declared that with one million more men, the total British strength of all ranks would be 2,186,400.

Recruiting has increased to a great extent during the past week. It is expected that the Premier will formally seek the consent of the parliament for the raising of 1,000,000 additional troops.

The official statement issued from the war office this afternoon declares that the violence of the fighting from the coast to the Lys through Dixmude and Ypres has diminished.

YOU MAKE FRIENDS BY RECOMMENDING A RELIABLE
KIDNEY MEDICINE

Your representative called at my door yesterday meaning to leave a sample of your noted Swamp-Root and I am certainly pleased to see anybody connected with the firm who makes a medicine which has done so much for me and my family. A few years ago I was suffering from a terrible pain in my back and when I was up around the house I had to walk with my body bent nearly double. If you had placed a thousand dollars above my head I could not straighten up to get it.

Hearing of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root I sent to you for a sample bottle and from the effects of that small amount I was sure it would help me so I bought one bottle and it has cured me.

Shortly after that my husband, who was a coal miner, was suffering from kidney trouble and could not work and I sent for some of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. He was in a terrible condition, but as the doctors had not given me any relief, I had more faith in Swamp-Root and it was well founded, for it did the work and after taking a few bottles he was completely cured.

I daily recommend the use of Swamp-Root to my friends and neighbors.

Sincerely yours,
MRS. JOHN NORDQUIST,
Galeton, Penna.

A Rushing Story
Franco-Prussian
War of 1870

That is what we have to announce in the new serial we will begin shortly. It's a story by Robert W. Chambers, that master of romantic fiction,

The Maids
Paradise

The scenes are laid in and around Paradise, an idyllic French village, and in the midst of battles. An adventurous American who has joined the French Imperial Military police, falls headlong in love with a young French countess who has innocently involved herself in plots in her desire to help her fellow men.

THE FAMINE IN BELGIUM.

We, the people of the United States, in the full enjoyment of all necessary wants do not realize the extent of the distress in the unfortunate Belgian country. The people there were the victims of circumstance. That country was not originally involved in the terrible strife in Europe, yet thousands of them were made homeless and left in destitute circumstances. The able bodied men were suddenly called to the front in defense of their country, while the aged men, helpless women and innocent children were left behind to face the hardships of which they did not dream.

These people—women and children—are now face to face with a famine that threatens to be most destructive. All countries including those of the Alliance and the Entente have agreed that Belgium shall be helped. The relief ships which will soon leave the United States will not be molested on the high seas and the donors of the supplies are given every assurance that the cargos will reach the ultimate destination and that the distribution shall be made in the best possible manner. Belgium is not a large country, neither is there vast wealth within the domain. The suffering multitudes there are absolutely dependent upon the charity of other countries and to the United States is left a large part of the responsibility to supply the necessities of life. The appeal for help is made to this country by the American ambassador, who knows that thousands will starve to death unless an adequate food supply is received shortly.

In the past America has never allowed any nation to suffer. A number of years ago when Russia was threatened by a destructive famine, the United States came to her rescue nobly. This country is now more wealthy and better prepared to aid Belgium than it was when Russia made her appeal. The United States will not stand idly by and watch these helpless people abroad be stricken down for want of food. The great American spirit is too broad to permit this. Belgium will be taken care and the American people can be depended upon to do their duty.

NO INTERVENTION BY UNITED STATES

Administration Notifies Mexican Factions That They Must Settle
The Trouble.

WATCHFUL WAITING IS POLICY

Secretary Bryan Informed That Leaders Are Gradually Swinging in Line With Convention.

By United Press
Washington, November 13—The United States is not planning intervention in Mexico. President Wilson has sent this message to the factions there. The administration believed today that a refusal to recognize any faction as during the regime of Huerta will bring about a satisfactory settlement of the situation. "Watchful waiting" will be the policy in the future.

This was made evident by both the state department and the White House today. Secretary Bryan held a long conference with President Wilson today and upon leaving he stated that at present there was nothing concerning the Mexican situation for publication. He said publication would complicate matters rather than straighten them out.

It is known that Secretary Bryan told the President that he considered the Mexican situation far from hopeless. He declared that the confidential dispatches received from the agents of the state department stated that the leaders who first opposed the order of the convention were slowly swinging over to the cause of the newly designated provisional president.

Victim of Typhoid.

George Miller, of this city, received a message today of the death of his nephew, Alfred, the ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller, who lives near Jonesville. The boy's death occurred Thursday night after three weeks' illness of typhoid fever. The boy is survived by his parents, two brothers and one sister. The funeral will occur Sunday at 1:30 from the residence and at 2:30 from the Lutheran church at Jonesville. The services will be in charge of the Rev. Mr. Kaiser. Burial at the Lutheran cemetery at Jonesville.

 PUTTING A NEW PRODUCT ON THE MAP

A new chewing gum has been put on the map and 500,000 dealers stocked, and it was all done in sixty days.

In addition, a tremendous consumer demand has been created that is keeping the factory busy.

It has largely been done by bold, aggressive newspaper advertising.

The same advertising that is influencing the consumer is proving effective with dealers.

They are glad to stock up with an article that easily moves from their counters because it is advertised in home newspapers.

The way from factory to cash register is via the newspaper advertising route.

ever, that a conference would be held later in the day at which further steps toward fighting the spread of the foot and mouth malady would be taken.

A report brought in to the state commissioner of food and drugs by a deputy today said that the foot and mouth scare in Boone county apparently was groundless, since an investigation of the suspected herd in that county had shown, probably beyond quibble, that the disease did not exist in the herd. The best way to insure a successful fight against the disease in any county, however, is to consider all suspicious conditions as the forerunners of the disease and treat them as such, state officials say.

When Lion Tamers Fall in Love

ANIMAL tamers have certain superstitions which in their view are so important that to violate them would be a risk of life. Among other things, they believe that if an animal tamer, while in control of lions and tigers, happens to fall in love, he can no longer manage the beasts who, by some mysterious mental telegraphy, discover his weakness, and at once assume their advantage. This peculiar belief, long ago proven true, has been utilized by Robert W. Chambers in our new serial—

The Maids of Paradise

¶ The hero, Scarlett, having left the French Military Police and temporarily joined a circus as animal tamer, is suddenly unable to control the creatures, and is accused by his circus mates of being in love. Realizing the truth, which he had not confessed even to himself, he at once gives up the work.

FIGHTING IN THE WEST

Germans Still Making Desperate
Effort to Reach Coast.

ALLIES MAINTAIN THEIR LINES

Gigantic Struggle Settling Down to Test of Endurance.

Paris, Nov. 13.—The latest government report contains an admission that a force of Germans now holds a short line on the left bank of the Yser, but that a general effort by the Germans to capture the left bank was repulsed. The indication is that the attack as a whole failed, and that the allies have lost no ground that cannot conceivably be recovered. The allied line has made further advances at the old center, while establishing their hold on positions newly taken.

Berlin, Nov. 13.—The following official statement has been issued at army headquarters: "The enemy advanced from Nieupoort as far as Lombaertzyde, but was driven back across the Yser. The eastern bank of the Yser as far as the sea is now clear of the enemy. Our attack across the Yser canal to the south of Dixmude is progressing. In the region east of Ypres we have advanced further and have captured 700 French soldiers, four cannon and four machine guns.

Paris, Nov. 13.—The Germans attempted to swarm across the River Yser and beat back the allies from Nieupoort to Ypres. They were repulsed to the right bank at every point except one, where, presumably between Dixmude and Ypres, they held possibly 250 yards of the left bank.

The government in its report of the recent fighting frankly admits the success of the Germans in throwing a detachment across the Yser following their occupation of Dixmude, but plainly indicates that the allies have suffered no important reverse, and the allies' line to Dunkirk and Calais is determinedly held. The capture of Dixmude and the crossing of the Yser at one point appear to be merely new fluctuations of battle fortune. The Germans had crossed the Yser once before only to be driven back, and both allies and Germans have held Dixmude more than once in the desperate conflict of the past four weeks.

Germans Center Their Attacks.

The essential point of the late reports is that the Germans have not been able to profit by their slight advance at the points mentioned in Belgium, although they have attacked fiercely night and day. The allies could not be dislodged from their stronghold at Ypres and continue a resolute defense east of Armentieres. The Prussian guard attacked the British troops and were repulsed. Southward along the west flank to the Oise the fighting has been less severe. It appears from the official reports that the Germans have centered their attack on the line of Dixmude-Ypres-Armentieres, evidently under pressure to reach the French coast at any sacrifice.

Progress at Other Points.

If the fortunes of the day were slightly against the allies in the north, they had distinctly the better of the fighting north of the Aisne, where they withstood violent attacks, and in some places made new advances through the fortified line long held by the Germans. Progress was made in the region of Tracy Le Val and near Berry Au Bac. They defeated the Germans in an artillery duel near Craonne and demolished German guns. In a desperate hand to hand fight near Vailly they maintained positions and drove the Germans back. The official information as to the fighting at the east of the line is that the Germans attacked heavily near Verdun without result. The battle line has not changed for several days, the Germans cling to the position at St. Mihiel, between Verdun and Toul, the French preventing any further advance and continuing to bombard St. Mihiel.

TURKISH OFFICIAL REPORT

Boston Architect Runs Amuck On Steamer.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 13.—Charged with murder on the high sea, a Clyde line passenger said to be George B. Perkins, an architect of Boston, was held for trial by the United States authorities after a preliminary inquest here last night. Perkins killed F. W. Hinman, business manager of the Florida Times-Union, and president of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' association, on the Clyde steamship Mohawk, while that vessel was off the North Carolina coast Wednesday night. Perkins also seriously wounded Captain A. D. Ingram of the Mohawk and B. H. Wright, a passenger, of Utica, N. Y. Perkins is confined to an insane ward of a local hospital. His wounded victims are in the same institution. Neither of the three attended the hearing. Perkins apparently was unaffected by the reading of the warrant charging him with murder, and maintains an attitude of ignorance of his fearful deeds. N. K. Wentworth of Connecticut, Perkins's roommate on the Mohawk, testified that he became suspicious of Perkins when the latter took to excess what he called dead-ache powders. Assistant District Attorney Young questioned the witnesses. Mr. Hinman died twelve hours after being shot. His body was taken late last night to Jacksonville, Fla., accompanied by his widow, who witnessed the tragedy, and a son-in-law.

Inspect the New Models of Rengo Belt Reducing Corsets

Unless a corset intended for the reduction of stout and medium figures has sufficient strength to withstand every strain put upon it and still retain its shapeliness until thoroughly worn, it is an expensive and unsatisfactory garment from the very beginning—because it starts to lose its shape the first time it is worn. That is why Rengo Belt corsets have always been made doubly strong. They have wonderful value because they need not be discarded before half worn out. They are strong enough to positively reduce the excess flesh at the back, hips and abdomen. Their elastic freedom is unequalled.

The new models are ready for inspection. You will find them boned with double watch-spring steels guaranteed not to rust.

INSURANCE COMPANY WINS ITS CONTENTION

State Loses Its Suit for Disputed Taxes.

Indianapolis, Nov. 13.—Hundreds of thousands of dollars that the department of the auditor of state had claimed to be due in taxes from foreign insurance companies under the so-called reciprocal tax laws of Indiana, and on what was alleged to have been a miscalculation of gross premiums, less fire losses, cannot be collected, Judge Orbison of superior court has decided. The case decided was that of the state against the Continental Insurance company of New York. About $40,000 was asked by the state in that case, but the result affects all other foreign companies, many of which had lawyers watching the suit. The case was a test suit.

The state alleged that the insurance companies incorporated in other states and transacting business in Indiana should pay a tax of 3 per cent on all premium receipts less the actual fire losses. From the New York companies the state was claiming additional taxes on the theory that the 3 per cent net tax here was less than the 2 per cent gross tax of New York assessed against Indiana companies. The insurance company contended that it had paid all the taxes due from it. The company also raised the question that the 2 per cent tax in New York was assessed only against business done in cities and towns which had organized fire protection, and the tax thus collected went toward the fire protection fund.

Judge Orbison held that the insurance company was entitled to the credits it claimed, and also that the New York 2 per cent tax does not apply to the case before the court, because of the difference in the system of applying the tax to the insurance companies. An appeal probably will be taken.

Sunday School Lesson

November 15 (Fourth Quarter) Lesson 7

JESUS AND PETER

GOLDEN TEXT:—Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall. 1 Cor. 10: 12.

A few weeks ago we saw in the story of Jesus Christ and Judas Iscariot, God and the devil face to face; now we have the same Lord Jesus in the hands of His enemies and the strange conduct, or, rather, misconduct, of one of His most favored disciples. All who are not saved are lost, but He came to seek and to save the lost. When any lost one is convinced of sin and truly receives the Lord Jesus Christ they become saved ones, and all such are equally saved; no one is more saved than another, for all have the same Saviour and the same salvation. But the experience of such as are saved is very varied, and the rewards will be according to service.

Some follow fully as did Caleb and Joshua, while some follow afar off like Peter in this lesson. Some utterly renounce the world, the flesh and the devil, while some are more or less conformed to this present evil age.

Some have no confidence in self and lean wholly upon the Lord, but others are too often self confident as Peter was when he said, "I will lay down my life for Thy sake" (John xiii, 37).

When the band of soldiers took Jesus and led Him away Peter followed Him afar off, even unto the palace of the high priest, and sat with the servants and warmed himself at the fire (verses 53, 54). The record in John xviii, 15, 16, is that Peter and John both followed Jesus, but John being known to the high priest went into the palace, but Peter stood at the door without until John spoke unto her that kept the door and brought in Peter.

There is growth in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, a blessed experience, of which Peter speaks in the last verse of his second epistle (II Pet. iii, 18). There is also a possibility of a growing departure from the Lord, even in the case of a saved person, and that the saved one enter the kingdom saved as by fire (I Cor. iii, 15; v, 5), but according to the words of the Lord Jesus Himself it is impossible that a saved one should ever perish (John x, 28).

Peter's downward steps as a disciple seem to have been his self confidence and consequent blundering, his following afar instead of fully, his sitting in the company of the servants and warming himself at their fire, followed by his profanity and base denial. Earlier in the record we hear Peter advising the Lord not to speak of suffering, but rather to pity Himself; on which occasion he was told that it was Satan speaking through him and that he savored of men rather than of God (Matt.

xvi, 22, 23). On this occasion he was again in the hands of Satan to be sifted, but our Lord had prayed for him (Luke xxii, 31-34). Peter learned by bitter experience something of the will of the devil and therefore could write all the more forcefully "Be sober, be vigilant, because your adversary, the devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about seeking whom he may devour, whom resist steadfast in the faith" (I Pet. v.

The true Christian life is the "Not I, but Christ." "Not I, but the grace of God" attitude. No confidence in the flesh, but rejoicing in Christ Jesus (Gal. ii, 20; I Cor. xv, 10; Phil. iii, 3). The company of the ungodly is no place for a child of God, and it is not for us to walk or stand or sit with them. We do not need the warmth of their fire, but by meditation on the word of God may have such a fire in us as the disciples had with whom the Lord walked to Emmaus (Ps. i, 1, 2; xxxix, 3; Luke xxiv, 32). Unbelievers have a great many warming up places, such as the theater, the dance, the card table, and too often those who profess to be Christians, and perhaps are, may be found in such company and yet do not hesitate to sing, "Thou, O Christ, art all I want, more than all in Thee I find."

We should be careful to sing the truth as well as speak the truth, for only as we do this is it real worship.

That Peter should be ashamed or afraid to confess Christ before these servants seems pitiful indeed. I judge from his cursing and swearing that he was probably given to profanity before he began to follow Jesus, and this was a sudden outbreak of the old nature which remains in us as long as we stay in these mortal bodies and concerning which we are said to be always delivered unto death (II Cor. iv, 10, 11; Rom. vi, 11). What a look of love and pity and sorrow it must have been that Jesus gave to Peter and which sent him out to weep bitterly, for he was evidently where Jesus could see him (Luke xxii, 61, 62).

It would be well for us if we would always remember that those same eyes are ever upon us, searching us through and through, and live by the well of Him that liveth and seeth me (II Cor. xvi, 9; Gen. xvi, 13, 14, margin). Contrast this same Peter, spirit filled, in the presence of the high priest and the council, bold as a lion (Acts iv, 5-13, 19, 20), and let us be so filled.

Any fear of man is an indication that the Spirit is not for the time being controlling us. The fear of man bringeth a snare, but in the fear of the Lord is strong confidence.

PART ONE.

CHAPTER I.

At the Telegraph.

On the third day of August, 1870, I left Paris in search of John Buckhurst. On the 4th of August I lost all traces of Mr. Buckhurst near the frontier, in the village of Morsbronn. On August 5th, about eight o'clock in the morning, the military telegraph instrument in the operator's room over the temporary barracks of the Third Hussars clicked out the call for urgency, not the usual military signal, but a secret sequence understood only by certain officers of the Imperial Military Police. The operator on duty therefore stepped into my room and waited while I took his place at the wire.

"Who is this?" came over the wire in the secret code; and I answered at once: "Inspector of Foreign Division, Imperial Military Police, on duty at Morsbronn, Alsace."

After considerable delay the next message arrived in the Morse code: "Is that you, Scarlett?"

And I replied: "Yes. Who are you? Why do you not use the code? Repeat the code signal and your number."

The signal was repeated, then came the message: "This is the Tuileries. You have my authority to use the Morse code for the sake of brevity. Do you understand? I am Jaras. The Empress is here." Instantly reassured by the message from Colonel Jaras, head of the bureau to which I was attached, I answered that I understood. Then the telegrams began to fly, all in the Morse code:

Jaras—"Have you caught Buckhurst?"

I—"No."

Jaras—"How did he get away?"

I—"There's confusion enough on the frontier to cover the escape of a hundred thieves."

There was a long pause; I lighted a cigar and waited. After a while the instrument began again.

Jaras—"The Empress desires to know where the chateau called La Trappe is."

I—"La Trappe is about four kilometres from Morsbronn, near the hamlet of Trois-Feuilles."

Jaras—"It is understood that Madame de Vassart's group of socialists are about to leave La Trappe for Paradise, in Morbihan. It is possible that Buckhurst has taken refuge among them. Therefore you will proceed to La Trappe. Do you understand?"

I—"Perfectly."

Jaras—"If Buckhurst is found you will bring him to Paris at once. Shoot him if he resists arrest. If the community at La Trappe has not been warned of a possible visit from us, you will find and arrest the following individuals: Claude Tavernier, late professor of law, Paris School of Law; Achille Bazard, ex-instructor in mathematics, Fontainebleau Artillery School; Dr. Leo Delmont, ex-interne, Charity Hospital, Paris; Mlle. Sylvia Elven, lately of the Odeon; the Countess de Vassart, well known for her eccentricities."

"You will affix the government seals to the house as usual; you will then escort the people named to the nearest point on the Belgian frontier. The Countess de Vassart usually dresses like a common peasant. Look out that she does not slip through your fingers. Repeat your instructions." I repeated them from my memoranda.

There was a pause, then click! click! the instrument gave the code signal that the matter was ended, and I repeated the signal, opened my code-book, and began to translate the instructions into cipher for safety's sake.

"Look Out That She Does Not Slip Through Your Fingers."

Where the Vosges mountains towered in obscurity a curtain of rain joined earth and sky. The rivers ran yellow, brimful, foaming at the fords. Somewhere in that spectral forest Prussian cavalry were hidden, watching the heights where our drenched divisions lay. Behind that forest a German army was massing, fresh from the combat in the north, where the tragedy of Wissembourg had been enacted only the day before, in the presence of the entire French army—the awful spectacle of a single division of seven thousand men suddenly enveloped and crushed by seventy thousand Germans.

The rain fell steadily but less heavily. I changed my civilian clothes for a hussar uniform, sent a trooper to find me a horse, and sat down by the window to stare at the downpour and think how best I might carry out my instructions to a successful finish.

The colony at La Trappe was, as far as I could judge, a product of conditions which had, a hundred years before, culminated in the French Revolution. Now, in 1870, but under different circumstances, all France was once more disintegrating socially. Opposition to the Empire, to the dynasty, to the government, had been seething for years; now the separate crystals which formed on the edges of the boiling undercurrents began to grow into masses which, adhering to other masses, interfered with the healthy functions of national life. First among these came the International Society of Workmen, with all its affiliations—the "Internationale," as it was called. In its wake trailed minor societies, some mild and harmless, some dangerous and secret, some violent, advocating openly the destruction of all existing conditions.

With one exception, all those whom the police and the government regarded as inclined to violence left the group. There remained, with this one exception, a nucleus of earnest, thoughtful people whose creed was in part the creed of the Internationale, the creed of universal brotherhood, equality before the law, purity of individual living as an example and an incentive to a national purity.

To this inoffensive group came one day a young widow, the Countess de Vassart, placing at their disposal her great wealth, asking only to be received among them as a comrade.

Her history, as known to the police, was peculiar and rather sad: at sixteen she had been betrothed to an elderly, bull-necked colonel of cavalry, the notorious Count de Vassart, who needed what money she might bring him to maintain his reputation as the most brilliantly dissolute old rake in Paris.

Her dossier—for, alas! the young girl already had a dossier—was interesting, particularly in its summing up of her personal character:

"To the naive ignorance of a convent pensionnaire, she adds an innocence of mind, a purity of conduct, and a credulity which render her an easy prey to the adroit, who play upon her sympathies. She is dangerous only as a source of revenue for dangerous men."

It was from her salon that young Victor Noir went to his death at Auteuil on the 10th of January; and possibly the shock of the murder and the almost universal conviction that justice under the Empire was hopeless drove the young Countess to seek a refuge in the country where, at her house of La Trappe, she could quietly devote her life to helping the desperately wretched, and where she could in security, hold counsel with those who had chosen to give their lives to the noblest of all works—charity and the propaganda of universal brotherhood.

And here, at La Trappe, the young aristocrat first donned the robe of democracy, dedicated her life and fortune to the cause, and worked with her own delicate hands, for every morsel of bread that passed her lips.

But the simple life at La Trappe, the negative protest against the Empire and all existing social conditions, the purity of motive, the serene and inspired self-abnegation, could not save the colony at La Trappe nor the young chateau from the claws of those who prey upon the innocence of the generous.

And so came to this ideal community one John Buckhurst, a stranger, quiet, suave, deadly pale, a finely molded man, with delicately fashioned hands and feet, and two eyes so colorless that in some lights they appeared to be almost sightless.

In a month from that time he was the power that moved that community even in its most insignificant machinery. With marvelous skill he constructed out of that simple republic of protestants an absolute despotism. And he was the despot.

An intimation from the Tuileries interrupted a meeting of the council at the house in Paradise; an arrest was threatened—that of Professor Reclus—and the indignant young Countess was requested to retire to her chateau of La Trappe. She obeyed, but invited her guests to accompany her. Among those who accepted was Buckhurst.

About this time the government began to take a serious interest in John Buckhurst. On the secret staff of the Imperial Military Police were always certain foreigners—among others, myself and a young man named James Speed; and Colonel Jaras had already decided to employ us in watching Buckhurst, when war came on France like a bolt from the blue, giving the men of the Secret Service all they could attend to.

There is no reason why it should not be generally known that the crown jewels of France were menaced from the very first by a conspiracy so alarming and apparently so irresistible that the Emperor himself believed, even in the beginning of the fatal campaign, that it might be necessary to send the crown jewels of France to the Bank of England for safety.

On the 19th of July, the day that war was declared, certain of the crown jewels, kept temporarily at the palace of the Tuileries, were sent under heavy guards to the Bank of France. Every precaution was taken; yet the great diamond crucifix of Louis XI. was missing when the guard under Captain Siebert turned over the treasures to the governor of the Bank of France.

Instantly absolute secrecy was ordered, so the news of the robbery never became public property, but from one end of France to the other the gendaccess to the jewels, or how he had managed to spirit away the cross from the very center of the Tuileries, could only be explained through the theory of accomplices among the trusted intimates of the imperial entourage. And if there existed such a conspiracy, who was involved?

My chase after Buckhurst began as soon as Colonel Jaras could summon me; and as Buckhurst had last been heard of in Strasbourg, I went after him on a train loaded with red-legged, uproarious soldiers.

I tracked Buckhurst to Morsbronn, where I lost all traces of him; and now here I was with my orders concerning the unfortunate people at La Trappe, staring out at the dismal weather and wondering where my wild-goose chase would end.

Half an hour later I rode out of Morsbronn, clad in the uniform of the Third Hussars, a disguise supposed to convey the idea to those at La Trappe that the army and not the police were responsible for their expulsion.

A moist, fern-bordered wood road attracted me; I reasoned that it must lead, by a short cut, across the hills to the military highway which passed between Trois-Feuilles and La Trappe. So I took it, and presently came into four cross-roads unknown to me.

This grassy carrefour was occupied by a flock of turkeys, busily engaged in catching grasshoppers; their keeper, a prettily shaped peasant girl, looked up at me as I drew bridle, then quietly resumed the book she had been reading.

"My child," said I, "will you kindly direct me, with appropriate gestures, to the military highway which passes the Chateau de la Trappe?"

BANQUET CLOSES AHLBRAND REUNION

Second Annual Home-coming of Dealers of Local Carriage Company is a Big Success.

JUDGE MONTGOMERY SPEAKS
Dealers from Several States Enjoy
Feast of Edible and Intellectual Good Things.

“Down in Nashville my firm thinks so much of the Ahlbrand Buggy that we have named it after the most beautiful and useful institution in our “City of Opportunity,” the Belmont School, and always refer to it as the Belmont Buggy, the very best we have,” declared Mr. James Hobbs, of the firm of Deeds & Jordan, of Nashville, Tenn., in the course of his remarks at the banquet of Ahlbrand dealers and salesmen at the factory building last evening. This remark was only one of dozens of similar complimentary references to the product of the local firm, and to the character and integrity of the men who have built up this institution.

Mr. Hobbs was introduced by E. R. Woods, one of the Ahlbrand salesmen, who made an excellent toastmaster, and spoke in a hopeful and encouraging vein of the business outlook in the South, and said his firm confidently expected the coming year to be the best they had ever experienced.

Mr. Woods presented T. S. Blish and H. C. Johnson, who made brief welcoming remarks to the out-of-town visitors, and spoke of the high rank in local business circles which the Ahlbrand Company enjoyed, and of the broad minded public spirited business men who composed the firm. In closing his talk, Mr. Johnson paid tribute to Mr. Ephraim Ahlbrand, founder of the firm, and asked all present to join him in a moment's silent tribute to his memory.

Mr. T. W. Mattingly, of Lebanon, Ky., and Mr. Will Hall of the Hall Seed Company, of Louisville, made very interesting talks. Mr. Mattingly, one of the large dealers of Kentucky, said that while he was now handling several makes of buggies, that he was making arrangements to carry the Ahlbrand line exclusively, as he regarded it the best and most satisfactory in every respect of the many he has been selling. Mr. Hall spoke of the changes that have occurred in the buggy business within the last ten or fifteen years, saying that whereas then price was the first thing asked by a customer, now it was quality first and price last. He emphasized the idea of one price—a fair, reasonable profit price—to all.

Mr. Robert L. Johnson, of Aurora, Ind., kept the crowd in an uproar with his humorous stories, and complimented the city on such an institution as the Ahlbrand Company and also spoke enthusiastically of the Farmers' Club building, and of the possibilities it presented to other communities.

The principal address of the evening was delivered by Judge O. H. Montgomery, who in a strong, vigorous talk, outlined the essential factors that had entered into the success of the Ahlbrand Company, and said that those factors—honesty, sincerity, aggressiveness and unswerving fidelity to principle—must ever be the foundation of every truly successful business, and that the progress, prosperity and stability of the country was only an index of the progress, prosperity and stability of its business men. Judge Montgomery recalled the steady progress of the Ahlbrand Company, the indomitable spirit which they showed when their plant was destroyed by fire a few years ago, and predicted for them an even greater success in the future.

Mr. Woods presented a beautiful silver fruit tray, the prize in a guessing contest which had been conducted during the reunion, to J. J. Christmas, of Glasgow, Ky., his guess being nearest correct. Mr. Christmas thanked the donors in a very happy talk, and promised them that in case there was another reunion next year, they were assured of having two Christmases.

During the banquet an orchestra composed of Prof. Albert Wilde, Adolph Steinwedel, Dr. A. F. Brunow and John EuDaly, rendered several selections, and also gave several numbers on the program. The Ahlbrand quartet also sang a group of songs which were heartily enjoyed by the banqueters.

After the regular program, Mr. Woods called upon several dealers present, all of whom responded with a few appropriate remarks. Mr. J. E. Tunley of this city, of the sales department of the Ahlbrand Company, made one of the best talks of the evening and urged the dealers to cooperate with the company in using the advertising material furnished them.

The reunion has been a big success and the company and the visitors are more than pleased with the results. Many of the dealers departed last night for their homes, but a few of the late arrivals remained over today to inspect the factory and place their orders.

The event will be repeated next year and plans will be made to make it larger than ever. The dealers have come to regard it as an annual event to be looked forward to with much pleasure, and make of it a pleasant and profitable visit.
